The Deacon's Corner

*This is the season of my Savior,
the One whom God raised from the dead.
This is the moment of resurrection
and I know it is the right time.*

*For I am coming forth, coming forth from the tomb-
and just like my God risen,
I feel bonded with the world,
I feel all brokenness brought into one.*

*I'm on my way to bless bread
with each of my dear friends;
I'm on my way to offer presence
to all those I meet on the road;
I'm on my way to bring resurrection
to all who need God's healing Life*

Joyce Rupp, OSM

Welcome to Sacred Heart!

The following people recently registered with our parish:

Parish Restructuring Notes

VERNON DEANERY - FOURTH REGIONAL MEETING - APRIL 5, 2011

GENERAL MEETING

The meeting opened with the diocesan prayer for restructuring

Bishop Cote was introduced and began with a few comments about the pastoral planning process, emphasizing its importance for the future of all our parishes. He made it clear that he does not have pre-designed plans for any parish, but is waiting to hear from the people of the deanery about what they want for their own future in the event of some necessity in the staffing of parishes. Bishop Cote emphasized the centrality of the Eucharist in our lives as Catholics, and pointed out that pastoral planning is concerned with having the Eucharist available to everyone. He used the example of St. Joseph Parish in Dayville which has found new energy and vitality after being merged with two smaller parishes in the Putnam Deanery. He reminded everyone that God is with us in this process, and that if we look at our situation honestly and trust in God, we will be fine.

Members of the parish committees asked several questions. The first concerned having laity as pastoral associates in our parishes. Bishop Cote commented that this is not a new concept, but the questions of proper training and proper skills are essential. Probably, this diocese could use an already established program, such as the one offered through the Archdiocese of Hartford, rather than establish its own, but certainly we are very accepting of having laity serve as pastoral associates.

Another committee member asked about the current situation of seminarians preparing for the diocesan priesthood. The Bishop said that the diocese has six candidates studying theology and six others at the college level. Although these numbers are not "great," they are good and a reason to be hopeful for the future. Bishop Cote pointed out that the diocese has had some very effective ad campaigns, but statistics show that thirty inquiries to a vocation office will result in one actual candidate. He pointed out that our culture does not support the idea of vocations; also, in most instances, parents no longer encourage vocations. This is an issue that needs everyone's attention.

Another questioner asked if there were any plans for the reinstatement of the permanent diaconate program in the diocese. Bishop Cote responded that in the diocese we have about 60 permanent deacons right now, but we do not use them properly. It has been pointed out, even by officials at the Vatican, that the charism (gift) of the deacon is not governance in parishes, but charity. The permanent deacon is intended to be the public conscience of the Church, pointing out to the community those who are in need. Bishop Cote feels that we misuse permanent deacons by not allowing them to be what they are meant to be. It is true that ordination allows the permanent deacon to preach after the Gospel at the Eucharist, but for many other activities, ordination is not a factor. Deacons are not meant to replace the priests. It was pointed out that the question of the proper function of permanent deacons is being addressed in several dioceses in the country. Actually, very few activities of the permanent deacon require ordination. A bishop can give the care of the parish to a lay person or to a woman religious. There are many ways to meet the needs of our parishes. There is a commission in the diocese which is looking at the question of the permanent diaconate program.

Another questioner asked about Parish Pastoral Councils in parishes that are yoked: can the Councils be joined and work as one council? The response was that this could be done, but such a step would be decided by the parishes involved, and never mandated for everyone in the situation of yoking.

A committee member asked if there was any assistance available for parish Finance Councils that might need guidance. The response was that the diocesan Finance Office would be happy to provide assistance.

The next question of the evening concerned parish schools, and if there were any initiatives underway to assist parishes with financing schools. Bishop Cote explained that a committee set up to look at that question was in the process of making its final recommendations to him. There is a plan being proposed for financing of schools, since Catholic education of our children needs to be a responsibility shared by all our parishes. Evangelization and the sharing of our Faith with the next generation is a fundamental responsibility for all of us.

One committee member asked if priests from religious orders would be asked to take over two parishes if that became necessary. Bishop Cote explained that the diocese has contracts with the religious communities that send priests to our parishes, and there is ongoing communication about these contracts. Certainly, there would be conversations about the needs of the diocese, as this becomes necessary.

The final questioner asked if the diocese took any steps to protect the priests from "burnout." Bishop Cote commented that priests who are organized and comfortable with collaboration and delegation usually don't have the problem of burnout. However, this is a personnel issue. It is important not to give any priest an assignment he cannot handle.

At the end of the questions, Bishop Cote thanked the committee members for their work in the pastoral planning process, and that he looked forward to receiving their final recommendations.

CLUSTER THREE: St. Joseph, Sacred Heart, St. Maurice

Attending: Members of Parish Committees from all three parishes including the priests from St. Maurice, Sacred Heart and St. Joseph

The cluster discussed the agenda questions as follows:

1. Points from Bishop Cote Remarks to bring back to Parishes

There was a brief discussion on which churches has brought information from these meetings to their parishes. Sacred Heart has continued to bring all minutes to parishioners while St. Joseph has not given much information out as yet. They have plans to update the Parish Council.

2. Areas of Collaboration

The areas of collaboration noted in the March minutes was refined and changed slightly as follows:

1. Youth Group –the idea of combining the youth groups from the parishes was discussed noting that a larger group of youth would have a greater impact on the youth of all the parishes. St. Joseph noted that their group is very small—only about 8. They will be talking with their Youth Group Director about combining with St. Maurice and Sacred Heart.
2. Adult Formation--Combining RCIA outreach and training was discussed briefly but the logistics of how this would take place needed to be studied. All the Parishes have some program of Adult formation including Bible Study and Small Christian Communities. These can be noted to all the parishes via church bulletins.
3. Common cluster weekly bulletin. It was decided that it would be better to start this collaboration by placing news of all three parishes in all of the three parish bulletins as a first step. All parishes have their bulletins on their web sites and it would be relatively easy for news to be drawn from each of these sources to include in the weekly bulletins of all three parishes. If or when a Parish is without a Priest or if two of the parishes are without a priest, it was decided to implement one bulletin for all three parishes (perhaps under a name for the cluster as indicated in the March minutes.)

3. How would cluster operate if one parish in the cluster is with a priest including no administration personnel?

The cluster continued its discussion from last month. It was noted that there are three parishes with four priests (and one Deacon). The thoughts were to look just at the numbers of priests and not particularly at where the priest is located. If one priest left from St. Maurice or Sacred Heart, there would still be three priests for three parishes. If one left from St. Joseph, given the current contract with the Pauline Fathers, another one would be assigned. Therefore, the first change that might have to be looked at is the number of Masses and the times that they would be presented at all three parishes.

4. How would Cluster operate if two parishes are without a priest or administrative personnel?

There was not time to discuss this issue. There is an expectation that Sacred Heart and St Maurice's past yoking could provide the blueprint for a plan for the cluster to review.

5. What information will be brought back the individual parishes about this meeting?

There was not much time left to discuss this question. Sacred Heart and St. Maurice already have published the minutes in their bulletins. St. Joseph will be speaking with its Parish Council in the following week.

The Word of God This Week

Set time aside each day this week with other members of your household, with other members of your parish or alone to listen to and reflect on the living Word of God. Use these passages from the Lectionary that are assigned for Liturgy this week. Reflect on how the Lord is inviting you to a deeper union with him.

Coincidence and the Holy Spirit

Edwin Booth was one of the greatest actors of the American theater. Yet, despite his fame, he lived his life with the dishonor that his younger brother, John Wilkes Booth, had assassinated President Abraham Lincoln.

One day, late in his life, Edwin Booth was waiting for a train in Jersey City. There was a disturbance on the platform, and Booth saw that a tall, young man was being shoved by the crowd onto the tracks just as a train was approaching. Booth dropped his suitcase and ran immediately to pull the man away from the train, certainly saving his life. As the two men began to talk, Booth found to his amazement that the young man whose life he had just saved was Robert Todd Lincoln, the eldest son of Abraham Lincoln.

Events whose probability are a million to one are often called coincidences. They are attributed to random chance.

People of faith, however, are able to see them from another perspective.

Jesus, in today's Gospel, breathes on the disciples, and says, "Receive the Holy Spirit." The Spirit is Jesus' promise that he will remain with us, that God's power will be active in our lives and in our world. We believe that the Holy Spirit is a force, a power, alive among us. God, the Holy Spirit moves us toward reconciliation, life, and salvation. The action of God, the Holy Spirit, may appear as coincidence, however we as believers can recognize in startling convergences the action of God in our lives.

The Faith of the Church

The bishops of the Second Vatican Council confessed that God's people were led by the Spirit of the Lord. Moreover, they insisted that people of faith are called to decipher authentic signs of God's presence and purpose in the events, needs, and desires of their lives and the lives of others (Cf. Pastoral Constitution on the Church in the Modern World, 11).

Questions of the Week

"Blessed are those who have not seen and yet have come to believe." We recognize Christ's presence in the signs around us, since we cannot see him directly.

Adults

In what events in the last week am I able to recognize the presence of God's Spirit in my life? How is the Spirit leading me?

Children

Do I realize that the Spirit of Jesus is always with me? Do I take time to listen to what the Spirit is asking me to do?

Visit us at www.FaithFirst.com (click on "Gospel Reflections") and share today's Gospel reading as a family.

Responding to God's Word . . .

We can all recall events in our life that look like coincidence. How we interpret these events is up to us.

Was it coincidence one Saturday night when you finally gave in to your friends' peer-pressure and went out to a party where you met the person you were going to marry? Was it coincidence that you were in an automobile accident and that shock led you to take steps to deal with your drinking problem? Was it coincidence that you met someone you had hurt in the supermarket and found the courage to apologize and thus take a step toward reconciliation? Christians are less likely to claim coincidence because we know that the Spirit of God is directing our lives.

Recognizing the presence of Spirit changes us. It makes us more optimistic. If God is active, there is always reason for hope. It also makes us more generous, because we believe that whatever time or talent we offer will be used by God for a good purpose.

What kind of person do you want to be? It depends on what you believe. If you want to be an optimistic and generous person, be wary of coincidence and believe in the Spirit of God.

SUGGESTIONS

Use one of these suggestions or one of your own to respond to God's Word this week.

In the home. Think of one person in your family who has reflected God's presence to you this week. Tell him or her of how you have been affected.

In the workplace or in school. Identify someone who is for you a sign of hope. Thank him or her for that particular gift.

In the community. Recognize a problem or disagreement in your church or neighborhood. Reflect on whether this issue is being used by God's Spirit to call you into action.

Meditation Moment

"Pigeon Feathers" is a story about a boy who begins to have doubts about Jesus. One night in bed, the boy decides upon an experiment. He lifts his hand above his head and asks Jesus to touch it. Then he waits. After a while he puts his hands down again, not sure if Jesus touched him or not.

For reflection . . .

We all crave assurance of our faith. In the end, however, faith is saying to Jesus, "I trust you!" Why do I find it hard to trust Jesus?

SORROW LOOKS BACK, WORRY LOOKS AROUND, FAITH LOOKS UP.

FROM VISION BY MARK LINK, SJ

A Prayer for Deeper Vision

Spirit of God,
each day I greet friends
and meet strangers, receive love
and accept criticism, share meals and collaborate in work. I am challenged and comforted, bored and surprised, burdened and entertained.
Help me not only to touch the surface of these events, but to perceive your presence in them, guiding me to life.
Amen.

Carry this thought in your heart as a guide for your faith journey this week.

We know that all things work together for good for those who love God, who are called according to his purpose.

Romans 8:28

Profile in Faith

Naaman of Aram (2 Kings 5:1-27)

Naaman was the commander of the army of the King of Aram. He was also a leper. The prophet Elisha told him to wash seven times in the Jordan. He did so and was cleansed. Naaman recognized in that washing not only a healing but the divine presence. From that time forward he worshipped the God of Israel.
